BERETANIA WINS FIRST TWO FROM PACIFIC NET MEN

The Beretania Tennis Club jumped into the lead yesterday in the series with Pacific for the inter-club championship of the territory. Beretania, the trophy holder, was successful in one singles and one doubles match and is now practically certain of retaining the title, which is decided by best three out of five matches, two singles and three doubles.

Yesterday afternoon A. L. Castle had little difficulty in winning from A. J. Lowrey in straight sets, 6-0, 6-3. Nowell and Warren, Beretania, beat Judd and King, Pacific, 6-3, 8-11, 6-3. This last match was scheduled for this afternoon but was advanced for the convenience of the players. There will be no tennis this afternoon.

Tomorrow morning at the Moana hotel courts at 9 o'clock Robertson and Hoogs, Beretania, will play Lowrey and Davis, Pacific.

Monday afternoon at 4:30, at Beretania, Castle and Henoch will play H. K. Castle and Walter Dillingham.

GOLF GOSSIP

BY HARRY VARDON.
(The British Champion.)

I must confess that there are more really bad golf players among women than there are among men, and my experience as a teacher tells me that the cause of their failure is, in a very large number of cases, the circumstance that they turn the left wrist wrong way at the beginning of the swing. The commonness of this fault where women golfers are concerned is truly extraordinary, and it has puzzled me greatly.

The only explanation that I can conceive is that most of them play the piano and that they develop an unconquerable habit of arching the wrists in the same way as when striking the keys of the instrument in question—that is to say, bending the wrists in such a way that they are looking up to the ceiling or sky. This is precisely what women do in a very great number of instances on the links.

Turn of Wrist Important.

One of the most important principles of the golf swing (it is not far from being the chief) is to turn the left wrist gently toward the body at the beginning of the swing; unless this is done, the wrist in question will be bent outward at the top of the swing, and then the club will be in a hopeless position for a straight shot. The left wrist absolutely must be disposed under the shaft (not arched outward) at the top, and it is in this connection that women golfers exhibit their most pronounced weakness.

Their keenness is splendid. In Britain, at any rate, I am sure that, taken as a body, they are much more in earnest about the game than the men. Often you will find two men contesting a match in a very easy going frame of mind; but I have never seen women so disposed. Even though nothing tangible depends on the result they struggle for all they are worth and very seldom talk during the round. Personally, I like to observe this spirit; golf is a serious game, which is not worth playing at all unless you concentrate the whole of your attention upon it.

Women Play With Zeal.

Proof of the keenness of women to be found in the zeal with which they arrange and contest interteam matches. These events are almost dead in Britain, so far as men are concerned, but they are fast increasing in interest and importance among women (or were doing so until the war started) and there is tremendous rivalry for places in the county teams.

The best woman golfer I have ever seen is Miss Cecil Leitch. Some years ago an allowance of a half proved sufficient to enable her to beat H. H. Hilton, and I think that on similar handicaps terms she would win three times out of four against any prominent amateur of the male persuasion.

SUCCESS OF MILITARY RACE MEET AT SCHOFIELD ASSURED

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, Aug. 7.—Preparations for the race meet to be held at Schofield Barracks, Saturday, August 28, are being made on almost as stupendous a scale as the county fair of a year ago. The officers of the two mounted regiments are devoting a great deal of time toward making it a grand success and are receiving staunch support from the department commander, Maj. Gen. William H. Carter, and the post commander, Brig. Gen. J. P. Wiser. A splendid course for flat races and a steeplechase has been laid out and is being put in the best of condition. Grandstands are to be erected, with boxes and reserved seats for several hundred, and parking space is to be provided for 100 or more automobiles.

The object of the meet is to stimulate interest in horses and horsemanship, and to provide funds for the team of 24 enlisted men who are to go to San Francisco in October to represent the army of Hawaii at the mounted tournament to be held at the Panama-Pacific exposition. The government will furnish transportation and 25 cents per man per day for rations, but to properly equip the team with racing saddles, other equipment and a mess fund to supplement the 25-cent ration a few extra dollars are greatly in demand. The prices are not to be exorbitant and the show will be worth many times the expenditure. General admission will be 50 cents, grandstand 75 cents and reserved seats including boxes $1. No charge will be made for automobile parking space.

The races are not only open to the officers and enlisted men of the army but to anyone in the territory who has a horse that can run or jump. Several of the firms in Honolulu are putting up handsome cups as prizes to supplement the substantial cash prizes that are offered for the various events. Lieut. Edgar M. Whiting, 4th Cavalry, who has the general management of the races on his hands, is putting up $50 in prizes for the enlisted men's steeplechase. All the races will be run strictly under the rules of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association, except that the jumps are six inches lower than the regulation jumps.

The program as approved by the commanding general is as follows:

1. 2 p. m.—Recurve race (for enlisted men competing for the Panama-Pacific exposition team).
2. 2:20 p. m.—Roman race (same).
3. 2:30 p. m.—Jumping competition (same).
4. 3 p. m.—Quarter-mile race on the flat. For polo ponies that have played at least one period in a tournament. Weight 150 pounds. To be ridden by members of a recognized polo association of qualified gentlemen riders under rules of the National

Stewards—Col. S. D. Sturges, 1st F. A.; Col. G. N. Sands, 4th Cav. Judges—Lieut. W. C. Martin, 4th Cav.; Lieut. W. C. Potter, 1st F. A.; Lieut. R. H. Kimball, 4th Cav. Paddock judge—Lieut. A. K. B. Lyman, C. E. Clerk of course—Capt. P. D. Glassford, 1st F. A. Starter—Capt. L. W. Redington, N. G. H. Assistant Starter—Sergeant-Maj. W. F. Saportas, 4th Cav. Clerk of the scales—Lieut. L. A. Beard, 1st F. A. Veterinarian—Dr. A. L. Mason, 4th Cav.

They make a man putt better. I was playing a woman on my home course the other day and having beaten her many times I confess that I tried to miss a putt on the last green in order that the match might finish all even. And the ball went down, very much to my astonishment. Perhaps that is the best way to hole a long putt—try to miss it.

WAR OBSERVERS GIVEN POSTS.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Col. John Biddle and Capt. Berkeley Enoch, until recently attached to the embassy at Vienna as army observers, have been assigned to the war college. With their return the European battlefields are left practically without American military observers. While both officers and also the war department refused to discuss their return, it is believed to be in accordance with Secretary Garrison's policy to withdraw officers where their presence caused friction and embarrassment.

It is said that the popular idea among officers in the army of the Tenth Cavalry of the destruction wrought by American arms and ammunition made the position of the American observers uncomfortable.

Visitor (sampling Belfast stout with evident appreciation).—Really, this is splendid stuff. They say that it is both meat and drink. Workman (interrupting).—Sure, an' it's rough ye are, an' if ye take plenty as it it'll fild ye loughs, too.—London Punch.

KAHANAMOKU IS REGULAR AUTHOR; WRITES STORIES

San Francisco Call-Post Has Series of Articles on Swimming By Champion

Duke Kahanamoku, who returned to Honolulu yesterday, is a regular author. Duke's name appears over a series of articles on swimming in the San Francisco Call-Post. Ty Cobb and Eddie Collins now have nothing on the local swimmer, when it comes to the literary side of athletics.

With a full length picture of Duke, the Call-Post gives its readers the following explanatory note and half a column of advice:

This is the first of a series of articles on swimming, written by Duke Kahanamoku, the world's champion swimmer. He will tell of the advantages of every stroke in the series. Don't fail to read them all.

By DUKE KAHANAMOKU.

(World's Champion Swimmer.)
Whether you desire exercise, pleasure, development or just want to break up a fit of the blues, my motto is "swim." Swimming is to me a recreation and pleasure that can not be found in any other form of sport or pastime.

Some men claim that golf is the greatest of all outdoor exercises, others that country hiking is good, while some turn to their track athletics.

Golf is all right and is good for exercise, with an occasional swing of the arms. Cross country hiking is good to keep down fat and keep the legs supple. Track work is good, but unless followed out along positive instructions is liable to cause harm to the man who goes for record breaking. Those who play baseball get the nearest approach to all round development that swimming gives.

To my mind swimming is a necessity and should be included in by every one. Children, young men, young women, middle aged men and women and old men and women can get exercise plenty out of swimming and can not harm themselves.

Swimming is a symmetrical development. The arms and legs get proper development by uniformity of action, the stomach muscles are brought into play, the shoulders are developed in a far greater degree than from any other form of exercise, while the lungs receive a natural and genuine course of expansion and development.

The development of the muscles by swimming is different to other forms of exercise. Track and boxing and gymnastic work will tend to show up the muscles and make them stand out. Swimming on the other hand slicks down the muscles and it is often said that a swimmer has no muscles.

I want to impress upon every one that women can not get into track work, boxing or other forms of sport, but they can and should participate in swimming events.

There are many methods of swimming, some of which I will endeavor to describe in a few articles that I will write for The Call and Post. For myself, swimming, I suppose, comes naturally. In the islands every one can swim, and, like Topsy, "it just grooved on us." I do not remember having learned to swim—that is, with proper instruction, such as you get in the Larnie baths, for instance. It is just as natural for any one to get into the water and swim as it is for me, and with such large numbers of swimming spots around San Francisco bay there is no reason why every man, woman and child should not be able to swim.

In my next article I will give a description of breast stroke swimming and other popular strokes.

SHORTAGE OF SUGAR

IN NEW ZEALAND

There is a shortage of sugar in this part of the world, and there is some anxiety on the part of the consumer. The Colonial Sugar Refining Co. is bringing in the sugar production from the Fiji islands and hopes to be able to nearly meet the demands. The above company practically has control of the sugar market of Australasia.

This company entered into an agreement with the New Zealand authorities the first of the year that the price of sugar should not be above $97.33 per ton of 2240 pounds before June 30, 1915, and now it is understood that any advance shall not exceed 1 cent per pound.

Also it is understood that there will be no opposition on the part of the above company to imports of sugar through other channels. Here is an opening for American sugar.—Consular Reports.
